

Hugo Cabret – Reading Lesson 1

This is a reading lesson I created for my Language Arts methods class at Vancouver Island University. The intent of this lesson was to show our knowledge of the reading process and incorporation of the six language arts.

I chose this evidence for standard 6 because it shows my knowledge of the subject and ability to plan lessons that incorporate the different language arts into my teaching. Having a broad knowledge base for a subject is essential for teachers to effectively adapt and meet the learners' needs in a diverse classroom setting.

Standard 6 is important to me as a new teacher because without a broad knowledge of what we are teaching, we are but a step ahead of the students themselves. Teachers need to be able to give assistance and adapt material to the level of the student's knowledge.

“How does a broad knowledge of a subject help in substitute teaching?”
